Dear Fellow Hiring Professional:

Being a small rural hospital, we often have difficulty filling open professional and technical positions. After spending well over a year focusing on unsuccessful conventional advertising, we chose to work with RadSciences Group to help fill our need. They took the time to develop a personal relationship with us and to understand our circumstances. The lines of communication were always open, and they were very responsive to our needs throughout the process. They provided us with high-quality individuals for consideration, and we were able to hire a great candidate from them within two months of service initiation.

We received quality service from beginning to end, and we continue to keep in touch on a regular basis. We will certainly use RadSciences Group if we have a need in the future!

Best Regards,
